MR. JOHN W. WALSH

To one who is sincerely interested in every member of our class; who, under all circumstances maintains dignity and poise; who, in the minds of his students, represents fairness and integrity; who, being a student himself, appreciates excellence in others; who, because of his sense of values, puts first things first; we, the Class of 1950, dedicate our Yearbook.

Dedication

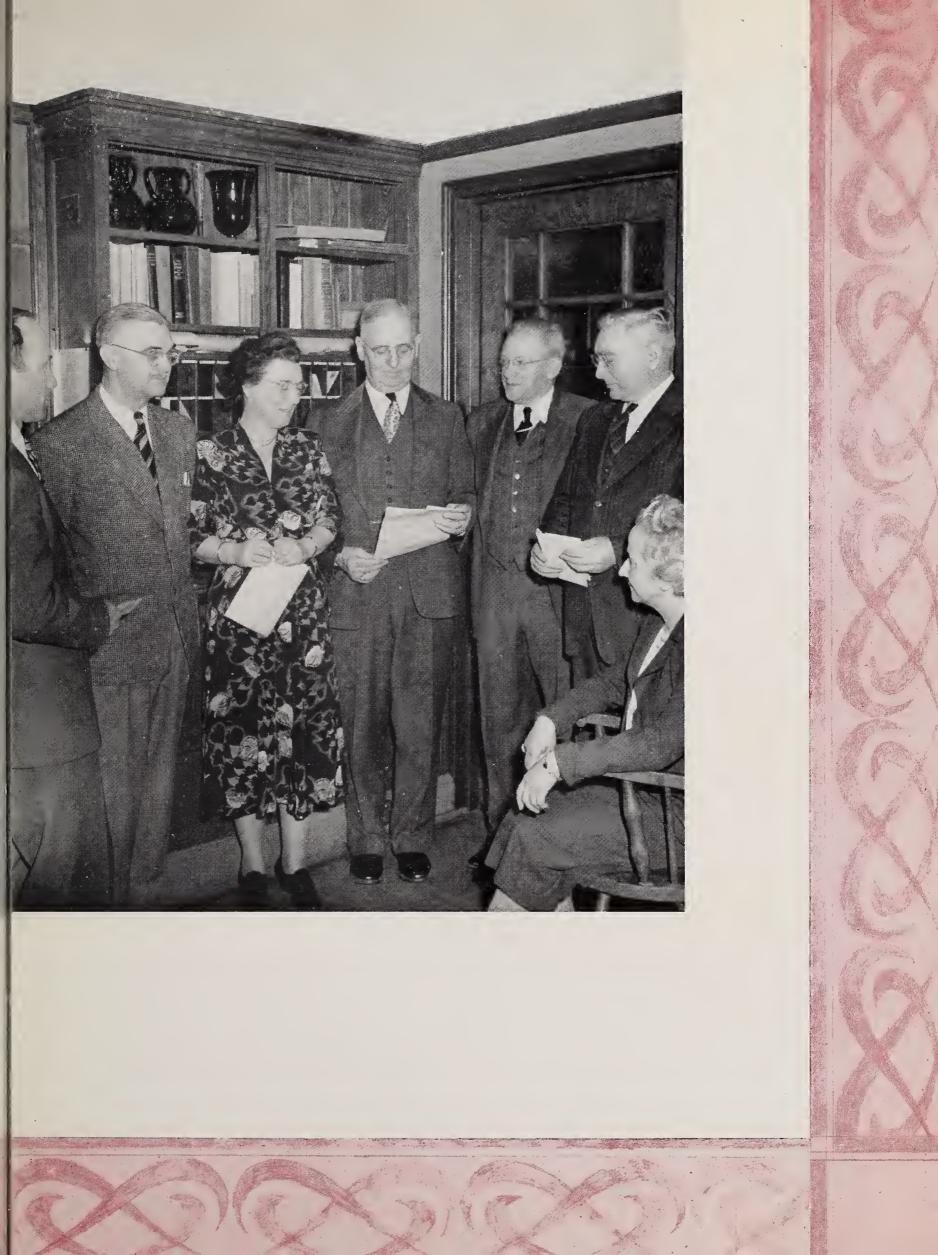

Foreword

We, the members of the Manet Staff, present to you, the members of the Class of 1950, your Manet. May it be to you what we have tried to make it: a distinctive and graphic representation of your high school life that at every page will bring back some fond memory of your years at North Quincy High School.

Mr. Collins' Message

The distinction of graduating from high school at the mid-century mark happens to be the good fortune of the members of this class, and this important fact in itself presents a challenge to all people who wish to face the prospects for further progress in the years ahead.

The half of the century now behind us has resulted in triumphs and tragedies in many parts of the world, and has produced international thinking in which the entire world is involved.

The half of the century ahead can succeed and become a period of civilization unparalleled in history if its people profit from the past and build constructively on the foundations for the security of the future.

May the graduates of this school take their proper places at this important turning point in the history of mankind.

This year's Student Council, under the sponsorship of Mr. Lyons, has been a very busy group. The Red Feather Community Fund Drive last October found the Council members scouring the senior unit homerooms for loose change, and the March of Dimes Drive in February gave them a chance to gather the change that had collected since October. In February, the Council decided to find out how other schools solved some of their problems, such as keeping their cafeterias clean, and providing interesting assembly programs for their students. Committees were formed during March to visit these schools.

Several ways of raising money were put into effect. For a time, North stickers for books were sold in the cafeteria during lunch periods, and later North Quincy Red Raider decals for automobiles were put on sale. The council also sold plastic coated book covers, but the profits from these were donated to the 1950 Manet.

The Council not only sponsored several projects for the school and the community, but also has found time for two of the year's big social events. The "Rolling Raiders." a roller skating party, was held at the Riverveiw Rollerdrome in October. Everyone who went, whether or not he could skate, thoroughly enjoyed the affair. In December, the Council also held one of the year's outstanding dances, "Sleighbell Serenade."

President, Theodore Reed: Vice-President, Frances Wright: Secretary, Marjorie Thompson: Treasurer. Burton Brown: Adviser, Mr. Lyons.

STUDENT COUNCIL

"Why the special curtains for the stage?"

"Why are the lights out, and what are those four candles?"

"It all looks so impressive, so solemn."

It is impressive: it is solemn. It is the induction ceremony of the National Honor Society, at which new members are received into Chapter 1804 of the national group.

One by one the four candles are lighted as four members of the society aptly present their interpretations of scholarship, service, leadership, and character. For it is his high scholarship in studies, his service to school organizations, his leadership both in class and in outside activities, and his character as observed by his teachers, that determines the student's election to the society.

Now that the four candles are lighted, the anxiously awaited moment has arrived. The members-to-be file by the front of the stage each receiving a membership card and the enviable gold lapel pin. Next, in sober concert, the newly elected members, lead by Mr. Collins, repeat the pledge. The address by the guest speaker concludes the program leaving us feeling a little bit dissatisified with our indifference to school work and best of all a little bit resolved to do better in improving our own character, scholarship, leadership and service.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

Who is this dauntless, unflinching, stouthearted individual who, amid the chaotic cavalcade of passing students, stands staunchly at his post of duty? It is the traffic officer. All for the recompense of leaving the classroom two minutes early this guardsman of the corridor must endure the rigors of regulating traffic.

Strong character is required to bear meekly the wounds of battle, the friendly "nuggie" on the arm, the inconsiderate and ungentle placing of the foot upon the officer's toe. The ranks of the traffic squad, consequently, are filled by pupils selected by the teachers for their amiability and long-suffering.

TRAFFIC SQUAD

Do you know the work behind our school paper, the North Star? About a week before publication the whole school is reminded that articles are due; then the work really begins. First, the editorial staff sorts the contributions, reduces verbose material, and selects the most newsworthy articles. Other interesting bits are saved and relegated to a later issue: then the whole paper goes to Miss Youngerman's efficient typing staff.

After it has been proofread, the staff figures out how many columns each article will take, thus determining the correct place in the paper for the gossip column, the club news, the sports section, and the feature articles. Finally, a dummy is set up and sent to press. The following Thursday students buy a complete and interesting account of school affairs for only five cents.

Credit for this publication belongs to John Galvin and Jane Nolan, who head up the journalism staff; to Joan McParland and her assistants, who solicit the advertisements: to Janet Ballou and Carolyn Moody, who so competently handle circulation, and to Mr. Starr, who advises the group. The result of their hard work is an accomplishment of which they can rightfully be proud.

NORTH STAR

The old saying "Experience is the best teacher" is the basis of an organization which is of great service to the school, the Student Secretarial Staff. Senior girls interested in getting valuable office training may do so in a number of ways. Members of the staff are appointed to work in the office of the assistant principals where they are responsible for compiling, typing, and mimeographing the daily absentee list. The staff is also called upon to mimeograph programs for special events such as the Christmas assembly.

Other students are selected to do secretarial work for teachers. In this capacity their main duties include typing, filing, taking dictation, and duplicating tests or study outlines. Although it means giving up spare time in study periods and after school, the girls do so willingly because they are gaining increased confidence and poise, thus improving their prospects for placement after graduation.

STUDENT SECRETARIAL STAFF

"Two for the first period."

"Are there any for fourth period?"

"I'll have one for the last period."

Do these remarks mean anything to you? Well, they do to a member of the Library Staff. Each member has taken several turns at passing out library slips. She has, at one time or another, served on the desk, checking out books and passing out magazine slips, or assisted by putting books back, or by locating desired materials.

The girls were busy socially as well. A tea at the beginning of the year was a means of introducing members to each other and acquainting them with some of their duties. Later in the year, the girls spent an enjoyable evening when they went in to see "Now I Lay Me Down To Sleep." They enjoyed the play and the top-notch performance of Frederic March and Florence Eldridge. The most anticipated event of the year, the Mothers' Tea, took place in March. After Mr. Hofferty's interesting talk, each mother was introduced. Finally, the girls rounded off the year with a delightful excursion to Miss Pratt's summer home. The Library Staff is an important organization and performs a real service for us all.

LIBRARY STAFF

When you are fortunate enough to have movies shown in your class room, you may notice one of Mr. Forest's skilled technicians come quietly into the room with a suitcase-like box in each hand, and cords and films under each arm. He quietly goes about his business in the back of the room while the teacher continues to conduct the class. Soon he signals that he is ready, and you see a complicated piece of apparatus known as a movie projector ready to go into operation. Someone puts out the lights, there is a whirl of machinery, and the show is on!

What you don't see, though, is the training period that that operator had to pass through before he was allowed to show that movie. Under the leadership of the sponsor and officers, he and many other newcomers to the club had to spend one night a week after school in Room 330 learning how to run various types of projectors and sound systems. He was taught the workings of each machine in order, until he had mastered it, and then he was carefully tested under many handicaps such as he might meet in actual classroom operation. Then after a practice period, he was given opportunities to prove himself in actual classroom experience. Films are ordered for various teachers, shown to those who want to see them during their stay at school, and promptly returned to the distributor.

MOTION PICTURE OPERATORS' CLUB

In the minds of parents graduation may be the epitome of twelve years' schooling, but in the minds of their sons and daughters, a poll of the senior class might easily ascribe that distinction to the prom, for up to this time what evening had been so memorable!

And what an ideal way to remember North! The girls were at their love-liest: the boys had never been quite so suave. The armory itself took on a glamour not wholly accounted for by the dreamy mood of the dancers. The big bare room had been transformed into a festive, and slightly romantic setting for all the gaiety. Ingenious decorations, a perfect orchestra, and unique favors contributed to the magic of the evening.

Larry Creedon and his well-chosen prom committee planned, organized, and worked during most of the senior year in order that the all-important affair could take place in a deceptively relaxed and leisurely manner. The midnight supper at lovely Coral Gables served as final testimony to the good taste and planning of the committee. Thanks to those hardworking seniors, the whole class could look back on May 26, 1950, as the most exciting experience in a year of many pleasant memories.

Adviser, Mr. Donahue.

PROM COMMITTEE

In spite of women's growing advance in the world of business, home-making as a career still interests many girls. Here at North ample proof of this is the active participation of about forty-five girls in the Future Homemakers of America. Eileen Dearing, a junior, is the state president of the organization in Massachusetts. The motto of the club, "Towards New Horizons," expresses the desire to increase the importance and value of home life. In carrying out this purpose, the girls have a lot of fun.

Every month a special program is planned for one of the meetings. This year the activities included a combination Halloween party and initiation, a speaker on skin care and cosmetics, one on good grooming, a Christmas party, a theater trip, a teachers' tea, and a picnic. Other plans consisted of a demonstration by the Gas Company, a square dance, and an entertainment for the mothers of all the members.

Besides fun and self-improvement, an important part of the program is service to others. This spirit was demonstrated by collecting Christmas gifts for European children, by remembering hospitalized veterans, and by helping out at teas and other social functions. Selling to the teachers cakes made by the members in their spare time was a popular means of raising money. In February, the members had a chance to act as hostesses to the representatives from other chapters participating in the state conference of Future Homemakers of America, held a North.

FUTURE HOMEMAKERS OF AMERICA

The Future Teachers' Career Club, a relatively new addition to the activities offered at North, is fulfilling an important role. Students who are at all interested in teaching have the opportunity to view its many phases and to learn more about the advantages and disadvantages of teaching as an occupation. The importance of increasing interest in the field of education is only too evident today, since many sections of the country are suffering from a lack of trained teachers. This club is a definite step towards remedying such a situation.

One way of acquainting members with educational problems is first-hand observation. With this idea in mind, the club visited the Quincy Elementary School. There they noticed various teaching methods as they went around to different classrooms. They also had a chance to study the children's reactions. By their own actual observation, they got a clearer and more understanding picture of teaching. Later in the year they planned to visit State Teachers College at Bridgewater.

Much can also be learned from other people's experiences. Mr. Bridges. in his talk to the club, told of his experiences while developing an educational program for the Negro soldiers in Germany. He added many fascinating details about his life while with the U. S. Army in Germany. Mrs. Wolfgang Koestler, who was also stationed in Germany, spoke of her teaching experiences with the Army of Occupation.

FUTURE TEACHERS' CAREER CLUB

"Have you taken your tests yet? Were they hard? What were they like?"

These questions fill the minds of the members of the Nurses' Career Club, whose meetings are held in 218, the second Monday of every month. Its aim is to acquaint the members with the nursing profession and the training required for it. Early in the year Miss Mary O'Gara, Director of Nurses at Quincy Hospital, spoke to the girls on entrance requirements.

Later on they made a trip to the Massachusetts General Hospital where several of the "probies" conducted a tour of the hospital and of the students residence.

A similar visit was made to the Quincy Hospital, where punch and cookies were served in the main parlor of the nurses' home. After some of the group had left, a few borrowed meal tickets and had supper in the nurses' cafeteria.

In March, for the Quincy Hospital "probies," the club members gave a tea in the library, for which they made from their own favorite recipes all the delicacies served. Later that afternoon Mr. Collins said a few words of congratulation to the student nurses, who had recently been "capped." In June an outing held at Fieldston ended a memorable year.

NURSES' CAREER CLUB

Every Wednesday, room 329 bustles with activity, for the Sketch Club is meeting. The energetic students who form this club may be practicing for a future occupation or perhaps they just like to draw. Some of the activities engaged in are learning the fundamentals of stage setting, the different media, and the different techniques and styles. An affluent study is made of various famous artists and their help to the modern student. Architecture and perspective are also studied extensively. Club members try out for special art awards and scholarships offered through the school.

The club helps the entire school by making posters for blackboards, dances, elections, and special campaigns. Some students come in during study periods and work on posters or other important projects. An example of their talent in this respect was shown at the Christmas assembly in the beautiful snow scene which was designed and painted for a background. This project represented hours of work and was one of their most satisfying accomplishments.

There is also a social aspect to the club: parties are held whenever the treasury funds permit.

Adviser, Miss Sawitsky.

SKETCH CLUB

An uproarious flurry of activity spiced the calendar year of the Spanish Club, pet project of about thirty Spanish-speaking students and the inimitable caballero with the twinkling blue eyes, el Senor Walsh.

The Club's fond hope is to have each member, after a thorough saturation in Spanish atmosphere, emerge as a bi-linguist: though this doesn't often occur. the resulting merriment is well worth the effort.

Lively classes in Spanish dancing were held. and an excursion made to the beautiful home of Mrs. Lothrop. from whom exotic Spanish costumes were secured—all in preparation for La Gran Fiesta!

The gaiety of this traditional celebration was enhanced by unusual decorations and by the hilarious antics of the toreador—killing a bull. who obligingly danced the conga.

The succeeding event, a home-cooked Spanish supper. was also a huge success though each unfamiliar dish seemed to tease: "Name me and tame me, before you claim me!"

Finally, with a picnic outing at el Senor Walsh's summer home. including plenty of swimming. fishing, and sailing, Caramba! our year of fun was done!

SPANISH CLUB

Those of you who take P. D. doubtless remember being shooed out of the Social Studies Lab on alternate Fridays due to the programs of the History Club, which aims to give its members a personalized view of history and world affairs. To this end the club has entertained Mrs. Miriam Neely, who gave a Kodachrome lecture on points of interest in the Western United States; Mr. John Hofferty, who talked about his trip to Europe: Miss Mable Pratt, who told, with the aid of color slides, about her visit to Guatemala; and Major Frank Bridges, who took the club on a Kodachrome tour through the American zone of Germany.

Club activities are not confined to meetings alone. Members have attended several sessions of the Quincy United Nations Council: they have visited the home of Mrs. Warren Lothrop, who gave them a lecture on voodooism in Haiti: they have had dinner at the Wayside Inn in South Sudbury: but the most enjoyable outing of all was the picnic at Miss Pratt's summer camp in Hanson.

History can be fun—and this club proves it.

HISTORY CLUB

Have you ever noticed how certain girls rush out of the building on Mondays and Thursdays? Chances are they're heading for the Norfolk Downs Bowling Alleys. On both of these days eight teams, each consisting of six girls, have been striving to score a three-string total of three hundred or higher, in order to win one of the gold pins awarded by Mr. Downing, of the Norfolk Downs Alleys. Although many have come close, Jean Gordon, Harriette Murphy, Lois Holland, Marianne McGuire, and Virginia Johnson are the only members of the Three Hundred Club at the time of this writing. The former three have three string averages of ninety-one, and the latter two have three string averages of ninety. Harriette Murphy holds the record for a high single, with one hundred twenty-three points.

One of the most fascinating features of this sport is watching the ball streak down the alley, not knowing whether it will go straight and true for a strike or hit some warped spot on the floor and roll into the gutter. The screams of delight or groans of dismay that follow add to the excitement of the game.

What do you say, girls? Wasn't the fun and friendly rivalry of bowling worth those little aches and pains you may have had at the start of the season?

Adviser, Miss McCoy.

GIRLS' BOWLING CLUB

"Lights!"

... And for the next fifteen or so minutes there is a tense silence broken only by the intermittent crack of rifles and the fateful message from the sponsor, Mr. Burgess: "Nipper ten at five o'clock, Larry . . . Pinwheel, Dave . . ." When all of the marksmen have finished, the lights come on again, and everyone anxiously crowds around the scorers to see whether or not North has scored a victory. Usually the answer is yes, for North's rifle team so far this year has had a record of one defeat in four shoulder-to-shoulder matches. North has fired two matches with Quincy, one at Quincy, the one we lost, and one at North, and two matches with Braintree. North has also fired several postal matches this year, but the results from these have not yet been announced.

The Rifle Club usually meets on Thursday and Friday nights after school at the range in the basement of the Quincy Elementary School. The girls shoot on Thursday night and the boys on Friday night. Many remarks have been made about the girls' shooting, but in reality, many of the girls are better shots than the boys. In an intramural match held during the Christmas vacation, the girls' team shot against the boys' team. The boys won, but not by much! Later on in the year, there were matches held with such a crack team as Stetson High, which has both boys' and girls' teams. In this match, the girls were really able to show their skill.

RIFLE CLUB

It's a thrilling basketball game! The score is tied with seconds to go, when a speedy North forward lets go with a game-winning "swisheroo," as a cheer rocks the rafters. The Quincy game? No! It's Wednesday afternoon again and North's girls are having another exciting session in the gym. But basketball is not the only sport at which these versatile lassies are adept. When spring comes they pick up their bats and balls and head for the softball field where they exhibit a wonderful combination of thrills and skills. Another quick change and they are back in the gym, which is divided into three separate courts. In one section a volley ball is being rapidly passed back and forth over the net, occasionally bouncing on the floor to the dismay of one team and the exultation of another. In another part a ping-pong ball is being mercilessly beaten across the table, while in still another corner, the birdie may be seen flying from racket to racket. So you can easily see that the sports at North are not all left to the boys.

"Live Y'ers" is a term that certainly can be applied to members of the feminine counterpart of the Hi-Y, North's Tri-Hi-Y Club. High jinks was the rule at initiation, openly lamented by the victims, but secretly beloved by old and new members alike.

Initiation was followed by an impressive candlelight ceremony, at which the new members solemnly promised to uphold the purpose and slogan of their club and to exemplify high standards of Christian living. In the succeeding weeks, the girls toiled happily making scrapbooks for the children at Quincy City Hospital and making shakers for the big North-Quincy game.

But the teen-age misses, assisted by Miss Mary Sherriff and the school adviser, found a ton of fun in such activities as record hops, invited speakers, movies, splash parties, and informal joint meetings with the other "Y" clubs of both North and Quincy. As one of the activities, they joined whole-heartedly into deciding the do's and dont's of dating by having a debate with their brother club on the ideal boy-and-girl date. The annual banquet brought the year officially to a close.

TRI-HI-Y

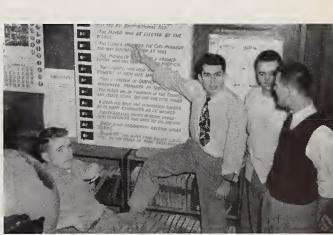

Inspiration, felicitation, celebration . . . Thus does the joint banquet, the final activity of the year, commemorate the activities of both North's and Quincy's Hi-Y organizations. Thus does it echo the prevalent year-round spirit of the Monday evening meetings, held under the direction of Mr. Simpson, the boys' secretary at the Y: the impromptu record hops with the Tri-Hi-Y girls, who meet on the same night as the boys and transform a would-be celibates' club into something decidedly more interesting; the intramural sports program, consisting of basketball and softball: the lectures and the spontaneous debates with the girls, such as a consideration of the requisites of the ideal date; and the bachelors' swimming parties, held at the pool at the Y. Thus does it exemplify the good fellowship of the members from both high schools. Thus does it represent their high regard for the opportunities with which the Hi-Y has provided them.

HI-Y

Ah, music! The divine essence of celestial rapture, the one means of infinite expression in infinite range. What atmosphere, what color would be lost without the corridor-shaking echoes of the band's ambitious attempts at harmony, without the flashing spectacle of the Drum Majorettes' dexterous efforts at precision marching and twirling. Although these organizations may not be the epitome of musical culture, they certainly perform admirably at innumerable school-sponsored activities. At football games their martial flourishes invigorate and inspire both the team and the spectators: at rallies their performances incite an intense school spirit; in parades and at the music festival their marching and playing are a decided credit to the school; in concerts the band's efforts to play in a more serious vein than usual are rewarded by no small success. Thus the Band and Drum Majorettes, acting as auxiliary units, furnish the essential spirit and drive to our football program; acting as principal units they contribute greatly to our musical program.

BAND AND DRUM MAJORETTES

The excited, enthusiastic crowd eagerly awaits the drill team. Here it comes. While the drum rolls and batons glisten, the spectators cheer Marilyn Hanley who leads the team briskly down the field. Keeping perfect time to the lively music, the girls execute flawlessly various complex formations. Looking very trim and attractive in their neat black and red uniforms, they give, before the game and between the halves, a first-class performance of skillful twirling and sprightly stepping.

At the Thanksgiving Day game, the girls gratified their most sincere admirers with a top-notch demonstration. Up and down they marched, shifting batons from one hand to the other without missing a single twist until in large letters across the field they formed N. Q.

Adviser, Miss McCoy.

DRILL TEAM

The rooms are hushed. Every ear is keyed in anticipation. Through the audiophones begin the reverent strains of "Now Thank We All Our God." The Bible quotation is read: once more the rich voices of the group join in "The Lord's Prayer." Thus the Glee Club fills us with the spirit of Thanksgiving.

The audience lights are dimmed. The appropriate winter scene at the back of the stage and the effect of the singers, uniformly dressed in black and white, set the mood perfectly. A soloist steps forward: the accompaniment begins. With the first few measures we recognize the beloved "Gesu Bambino." The Glee Club's beautiful Christmas presentation, an essential program of the school year, is underway.

It's spring again. The Glee Club is alive with nervous excitement, for tonight is the night of the Spring Concert. As the program progresses, we become aware of the chorus' versatility and flexibility. In a variety of selections it expresses the vigor of marching Scots, the tenderness of love, and the joy of true devotion.

But these are only a few of the undertakings of our active Glee Club. There is the Music Festival, at which the club's high rating is traditional: there is the joint concert at Quincy High, and the impressive Memorial Day assembly. All of these performances of the Glee Club have become an integral part of our memories of North.

GLEE CLUB

Spwang-g-g!Catastrophe! The G-string snapped on the upstroke of the bow. But the absence of one violin's tone does not discourage the sturdy young musicians of the orchestra. Not in the least! These stout lads and lassies bravely carry on. And their contributions to our musical culture are ofttimes underrated and unappreciated by us unenlightened laymen. Indeed, it is their efforts with wind and string which manufacture much of the melody which we take for granted at various assemblies, concerts, and other functions. They even play for the P.T.A. And through fair music and foul, through fortissimo and hit-ormissimo, Mr. Milton indicates the tempo with master strokes of the baton, applying his own dynamic interpretation to the authors' endeavors. Sometimes his gesticulations are misinterpreted, however, and pandemonium breaks loose. But our admirable director calmly wipes his brow and in most disparaging terms implores the group to terminate their attempted improvisation. After the gradual cessation is accomplished, the music proceeds nonchalantly on its desired course until another impediment in the rhythm is encountered. But Mr. Milton always triumphs, and thus we congratulate him for his successful efforts with the orchestra.

ORCHESTRA

Although seniors never like to admit that any class can equal their own, there is every evidence that the Junior Class will continue to maintain North's high traditions. From their very first dance on, the class has enthusiastically supported every social affair. Because there was no money in the treasury at the beginning of the year, the dance committee had to make the "Harvest Moon" a success. A big yellow paper moon was the center of attraction, while corn stalks and other harvest symbols were effectively used elsewhere. Their hard work resulted in a substantial amount for their treasury. The other two dances were as well planned and supported as the first. The practice of purchasing class rings in the Junior year was kept, and since the same design was chosen, the first deliveries could be made a few weeks before Christmas.

JUNIOR CLASS

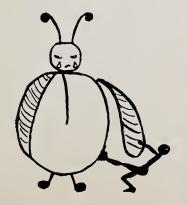

The Biology Club is one of the most interesting if not one of the best known organizations at North. Every Tuesday afternoon the club gathers in room 424, and after the business meeting members are allowed to pursue any biological topic which interests them. Some prefer to make use of the microscope in the study of moles and bacteria, while some like to classify specimens on hand in the lab. Others work preparing exhibits for use in biology classes. Another group finds embedding specimens in transparent plastic most interesting.

Not infrequently the club supplements its usual work with something extra. It has had Quincy's mosquito controller, Mr. Hannaway, down to lecture. It has been entertained at Eddie Harper's house. It has sponsored outings to the University Museum at Harvard and to the marine biological laboratories at Woods Hole. Besides this, the club has had a cook-out and field trip in the Blue Hills.

BIOLOGY CLUB

North will always be able to point to its 1950 Senior Class as one of the best ever, for all its undertakings were something to be proud of. The year's first social affair was "The ½ C Note" which added to the treasury a sizeable sum and was a fitting beginning for what is always a student's most memorable year. Although the title was musical and significant of the class of "50," the decorations were both musical and athletic, for the dance was held at the height of the football season. This was just the first of several successful social affairs planned by the Senior Class Dance Committee but made successful by the cooperation of every member of the Senior Class.

Going into Purdy's and sitting for pictures probably takes more out of a senior than anything else: two weeks of suspense before seeing the proofs; weeks more of waiting for the finished pictures. But who would forego the pleasure of exchanging photographs in his senior year!

The finishing touch of the senior year is graduation which is preceded by many rehearsals, but no matter how much a senior rehearses, when the time comes to receive that hard earned diploma he always has a stomach full of butterflies.

President, Greg Riley: Vice-President. Ann Woods: Secretary, Janet Appelin; Treasurer, John Leary: Adviser, Mr. Donahue.

SENIOR CLASS

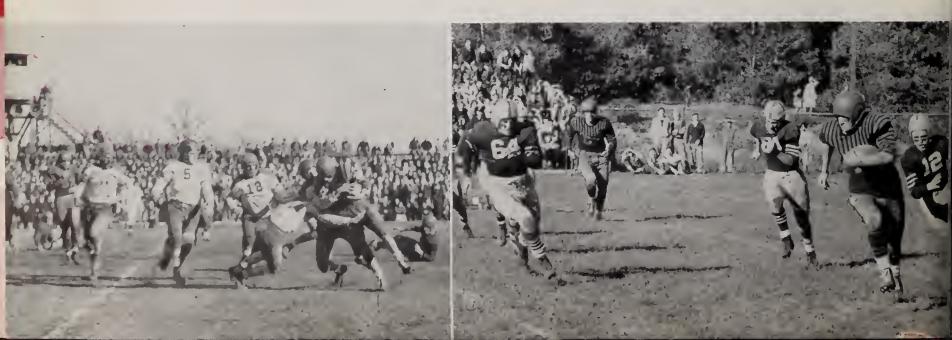

Football

The North Quincy High football season for 1949 began, as usual, on the opening day of school. After days of gruelling drill, Coach Jack Donahue, with the aid of his assistant coaches, Jack Mullarkey and Dave Hourin, lined up a powerful looking team which boasted six lettermen. three in the heavy forward wall, and three in the backfield. The team promised to pack a lot of power because of its weight and experienced players. The opening day lineup was as follows: Ronnie Wray, at left end, Ray Doherty at left tackle, and Larry Creedon at left guard. The important center position was held down by Frank Dodd. On the other side of him were right guard Don McGilvary, right tackle Harry Robbins, and right end Ed Doyle. Creedon, Doherty, and Wray had all played the previous year.

In the backfield, Dick Worthley was at quarterback, Jim Black and Chubby Young were at halfback, and Bill MacKinnon and Bob Nelson were alternate full backs. Worthley, Nelson, and Young had all carned letters in the 1948 season. For depth Coach Donahue could rely on these dependable substitutes: Bob Colligan, Don Stewart, Don Legge, and Tom Girvin.

The actual playing season began with North Quincy playing an experienced Braintree team at Braintree. North won a decisive and impressive 13 to 0 victory. The following week, the Raiders traveled to Dedham with spirits high, but were overwhelmed 18 to 7. The next Saturday marked the opening of the home season and the long-anticipated game with powerful Weymouth High, who were bidders for the Class A Championship. North undoubtedly played its best game of the season against Weymouth, but was still defeated 14 to 0. However, the Raiders lost far more than the game: they lost their ace quarterback, Dick Worthley, who received a serious head injury which incapacitated him for the rest of the season. Bob "Chick" Nelson filled in for the injured Dick and assumed his running and passing duties. On the rebound from its two straight setbacks, the North Quincy team lashed Norwood 32 to 6. The main cog in this, the most decisive win of the season, was Chubby Young, who scored eighteen points. The following Saturday, the revived Raiders traveled north of Boston to meet the Danvers team, but were downed 19 to 6. The next two games proved to be no more propitious for our injury-ridden team, and both Milton and Cambridge Latin handed North defeats. Milton won a close 7 to 0 duel and Latin handcuffed the Raiders 27 to 0.

The football season had just about drawn to a close. Only the big traditional Thanksgiving-Day game with rival Quincy was left to be played. The never-say-die boys in red and black entered the stadium on Thanksgiving morning with spirits up, realizing that a win would be a glorious climax to an otherwise mediocre season. Coach Donahue had selected Ronnie Wray and Ray Doherty to be the co-captains. The first half turned out to be a thrill-raising see-saw battle in which North maintained a slight edge over their arch rivals. When the gun sounded to end the half the score was 0 to 0. However, in the early part of the third period the Quincy team quickly capitalized on timely interceptions and went on to pile up a 25 to 0 score; but the score doesn't tell the whole story. It doesn't tell of MacKinnon's and Young's two shoestring tackles inside North's ten yard stripe which deprived Quincy of two sure touchdowns; it doesn't tell of the game's biggest thrill, the stand on the goal line which North made against Quincy when they had the ball on the four with a first down; and it doesn't tell of the unquenchable spirit of team and fans alike when the game was at its darkest moments. The North boys who played a consistent brand of ball all year were Ron Wray. Frank Dodd, and Ray Doherty, the last of whom was selected for the all South Shore Team.

North, playing an impressive brand of ball against Braintree. Weymouth, and Norwood, and playing in the opposite manner against Dedham, Danvers and Cambridge Latin, proved to be a hot and cold team. This can be partly attributed to costly and untimely injuries. The team not only was plagued with the usual minor injuries but also was severely hampered by the injuries and subsequent long absences of such key players as Worthley, Doherty, and Dodd. Although the substitutes for these men played in an outstanding manner, they weren't enough to quell the air of dejection the lost games produced. A school can't always have a winning team, and the law of averages finally caught up with North, who has had the lion's share of the wins in the games it has played. Perhaps more significant than the season itself was the fact that the North Quincy spirit never faltered on the part of fan or player, which itself is an oustanding tribute to an outstanding school.

Basketball

At the start of the basketball season, North's chances for a successful season were considered possible, for Coach Mullarkey had at his disposal several boys who had played last year and who gave promise of becoming crack players. Returning from last year's team were Gus Cuneo, Bob Player, and Dick McGlaughlin. The absence of Dick Worthley because of his head injury from football was a serious loss to the team: but with the ability of J. V. veterans Jim Kilpatrick, Ron Wray, Jack Fitzgerald, Jack Leary, Paul Draheim, Frank Dodd, Bob Colligan, and Brooks Reed. combined with the experienced play of the three lettermen, Coach Mullarkey was able to send a promising looking team onto the floor to start the season's opening game at Quincy High.

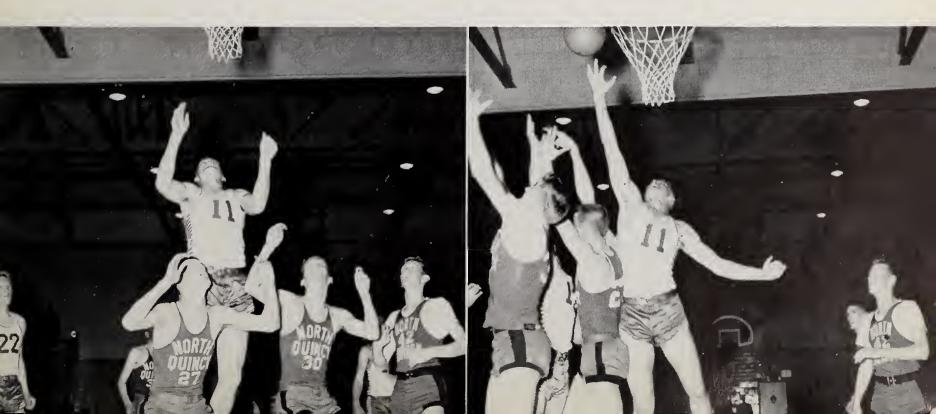

Unfortunately, the game proved to be a heart-breaker, for after leading at the half, North lost its spark and fell to its arch rivals, 32 to 24. The following game dimmed North's hopes still further since the Raiders were again beaten, this time by the strong Attleboro team; however, Coach Mullarkey and the team weren't too discouraged at this unprofitable start because North had fallen to two of the state's most powerful teams. Rebounding from these defeats, North handily defeated previously unbeaten Braintree 36 to 27. North's spirits were only momentarily brightened, however, for the team fell prey to a disastrous three game losing streak from New Bedford, Weymouth, and Brockton. In the next game the Raiders took revenge on Thayer Academy, downing them 37 to 30. In the following game, Braintree, revengeful from its previous loss to North, overpowered the Raiders 51 to 40.

The team, again on the rebound, met and swept over Brookline, but during the next four games was able to reap only one victory. However, one of its losses was to the powerful Attleboro team which the Raiders kept worried up to the final gun. Discovering some of their potentialities, North again rambled over Thayer, 52 to 41. The Raiders were unable to solve the tight zone defense Weymouth set up and experienced their tenth loss of the season. In the next game, at Boston Arena, the Raiders hit a new scoring high, beating Dover, N. H., which then had a record of 16 and 2, by a score of 54 to 42.

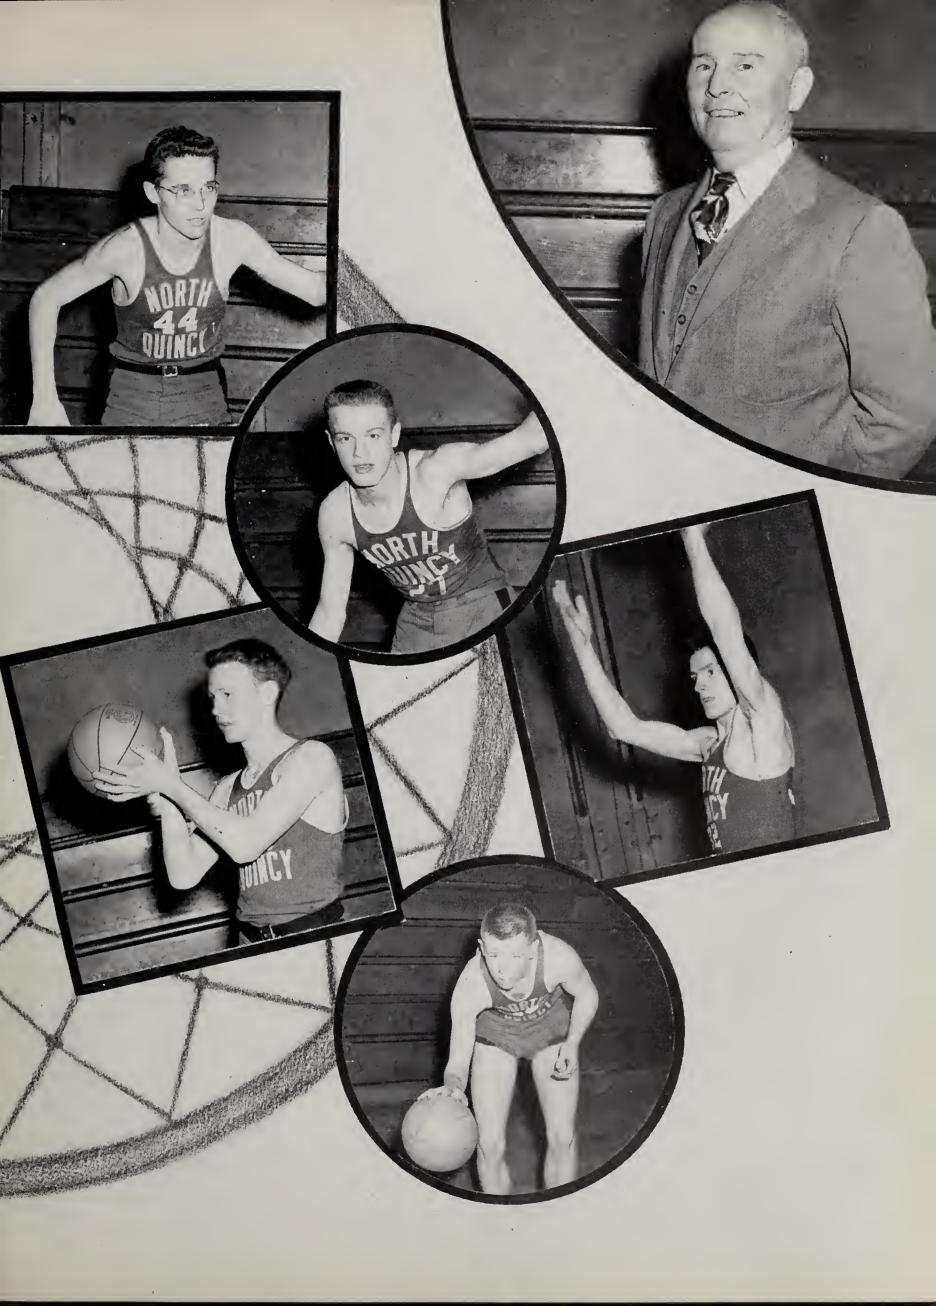

To wind up the season, North played host to its formidable rivals from Quincy High, and the Raiders were definitely considered to be the under dogs. Nevertheless, an overflow crowd of enthusiastic, cheering, North partisans packed the gymnasium for the team's final game. When the fans left a few hours later they had seen one of the biggest upsets of the year, for North downed its arch rivals in a thriller, 36 to 32. North led all the way and at the half was seven points ahead. In the second half Quincy started its pressing tactics which for a time upset the Raiders, but North regained its equilibrium and ended the season in glorious fashion.

As a scoring team, this team was by no means the best in the school's history; but after a poor start, the Raiders averaged 42 points a game through their final ten games. Gus Cuneo, Giz Player, and Jim Kilpatrick were the high scorers during the season. Gus led the others, averaging 11 points a game. Paul Draheim and "Moggs" McGlaughlin continually contributed fine floor and board work.

Coach Mullarkey also had many dependable substitutes who, along with Gus Cuneo, hold the key to the future of next year's team.

Even though six boys stood out from the rest, it was by the concerted efforts of the entire team that North had such a fine record. Had it not been for the other members of the team who followed these six across the finish lines to place and collect points, the team wouldn't have experienced the success it did. Don M. Stewart, Ken Vincent, Stanton Clark, Vin Miller, and Roy Bruton stood out in the field events; while Dave Hurley, Larry Creedon, Don Carroll, Don H. Stewart, Harold Hurley, Mel Studley, Roy Bruton, Dave Gibson, and Tom Radley consistently gave good showings in the running events.

Track

Late in March the track team moved from indoors to the outdoor practice field. There the team was put into shape by Coach West in preparation for the ensuing meets. The team consisted mainly of the boys who ran most of the winter in the indoor meets. Plenty of practice was needed, for the boys had been used to running on wooden floors, and had to get used to dirt, and sometimes mud, beneath their feet. Also, the team had to practice new events in that only three of the indoor events are held over into the outdoor season. Instead of the 50, 300, 600, and 1,000 yard races, the team ran the 100, 220, 440, and 880 yard races. The high jump, shot put, and mile race are the three events competed in all year. The broad jump is substituted for the hurdles race.

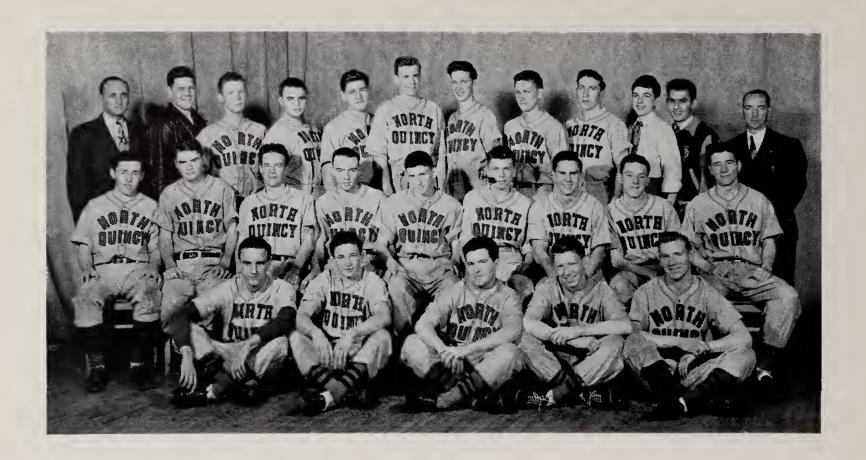

This year North played a five game schedule, meeting Thayer, Braintree, and Quincy at North and playing Weymouth and Milton away. The team also ran in the South Shore Meet held at Weymouth, and the State Meet at Newton. The chances for a good season were favorable, for all the boys who won the indoor state championship turned out for the outdoor team. The team's coach, Mr. Donald West, deserves much of the credit for North's outstanding track and cross country records. During the past three years he has developed North's team into one of the finest in the state and he will long be remembered by any boy who has run under his capable direction.

Cross Country

Because its season comes at the same time, football may have overshadowed the great efforts of North's 1950 Cross Country team, but the very nearly unblemished record of five wins and one single defeat in South Shore competition which was piled up by the Cross Country team tells the real story. Participants in other sports may have complained about practice routines, but if they had compared their routines to those of the Cross Country team, they would have realized how well off they were. Coach Don West had his boys, who braved the chilly weather clad in not the warmest of apparel, run the two and one half mile track each day so that they would be in the best of condition for the competition.

The reason for this excellent record is the consistently good running of such boys as co-captains Paul Murphy and Mel Studley, Ed McGee, Tom Sullivan, Warren Holmberg, Jim Kilpatrick, and Bill Carroll. Don West's team piled up their victories over Weymouth, Milton, Brookline, Quincy, and Rockland. They suffered their only defeat at the hands of powerful Braintree High, the champions of the South Shore. In the South Shore meet, North finished third behind Braintree and Rockland. This season was no exception to the great seasons which North has had during the past four years. May the future hold more great seasons for Coach West and his Cross Country team!

Baseball

Long before the grass was green and not long after the last, lingering patch of snow had melted from North's front lawn, our team's battery candidates started loosening up their arms down in the gym. When finally spring arrived, these boys moved to Montclair Field where they were joined by their teammates. It was there that the team, under the direction of Coach Hal Forest, could be seen working out on spring afternoons—the pitchers polishing their stuff and the others sharpening their batting and fielding.

Mr. Forest shouldn't have had any worries in the pitching department. In Don Miller, "Lefty" Gus Cuneo, and Bob Blanford, he had three experienced moundsmen to share the hurling duties. Other outstanding players that comprised the team were Chuck Abbot, Tom Girvin, Dave Lang, Don Legge, Dave Nelson, Chick Nelson, Jerry Welch, and Dick Worthley.

This year North had a rugged schedule. They met such potent clubs as Brockton, Braintree, Thayer, Quincy, and Weymouth.

It was stiff competition, and North's well-rounded team did its best to finish the season with a creditable record.

Hockey

Three points out from first place, the North Quincy hockey team took second place in its league, with a creditable record of four wins, three losses, and two ties. Because of the ineligibility of some players, the team got off to a poor start, losing three and tying one of its first four games. At the start of the season Quincy High beat the Raiders seven to one, and in the last game of the season tied them one to one. This certainly showed the team's steady improvement. Later, Milton defeated the Raiders four to two and one to nothing; again ineligibility hurt, but through the last five games, North won four and tied one. The team beat Whitman four to two and four to nothing, tied Hingham nothing to nothing, and defeated Brockton two one and three to two.

The team was made up of captain Frank Carroll, Bob Newcomb, Dick Gallagher, Don MacKenzie, Jim McGahan, Tom Girvin, Tom Adams, Dave Page, George McNeil, Don Legge, and Don McNiece. Newcomb and McGahan were high scorers with four each. McNiece and Gallagher were next with three. Three boys were picked to play on the South Shore all-stars: Frank Carroll, Dick Gallagher, and Bob Newcomb.

The team was unusual this year in that three sophomores received letters: Don MacKenzie, Dave Page, and George McNeil. Next year Coach Hourin will have six men returning from whom he can mold an experienced line. His only worry at present is finding a goalie to add to a combination which will be one of South Shore's finest.

Golf

This spring Coach Jack Donahue had the pleasure of greeting a team studded with such veterans as Bob Berard, Paul Byrnes, Jack Leary, Dick Manning, Dan McNeice, and Don Powers.

Last year these boys along with their captain, Bill McCarthy, lead North's team to its fifth consecutive Norfolk County League Championship. This year the boys hope to make it six straight, and with all of last year's letter men except Bill McCarthy returning, their chances are good. By winning the Norfolk County League Championship last year with sixteen consecutive victories. North was able to stretch its winning streak to thirty-three before meeting defeat at the hands of Beverly in the finals of the State Schoolboy Championship.

This year North has scheduled such tough opponents as Norwood, Walpole, Canton, and Quincy. But thanks to its experienced players the team is again well on its way to a crack at the State Championship.

Tennis

This year North went through its fourth tennis season under the excellent coaching of Mr. Sinclair. The team consisted of lettermen Bob Player, Frank Dodd, and Jack Fitzgerald and was rounded out by John Fallon, Roy Hayford, Frank Doherty, and Dick Greer. Mr. Sinclair pitted these capable "racketeers" against Hingham, Braintree, Thayer, Milton, Quincy, and Brockton.

During the past years at North, tennis has experienced a rapid growth in popularity. What was formerly considered to be a rather dainty sport has come into its own as a game boasting keen competition requiring skill, endurance, and continual practice. The practice sessions this year began, as usual, when the first warm weather rolled around. The boys perfected their serves and drives over the nets of the Montclair courts, where the home games are played. Mr. Sinclair was very optimistic over the team's chances this year and hoped its record would be of sufficient merit to arouse added interest in the game.

Tennis, though at present participated in at North only by boys, is by no means restricted to men. There are many expert women tennis players in the world today. Why couldn't North support a girls' tennis team, as they now do a rifle team, to brighten up the courts and perhaps incite the boys to even greater achievement than that of 1950?

utter weariness are at once forgotten as each girl whispers almost unbelievingly to herself. "I've made it. I'm really IN!"

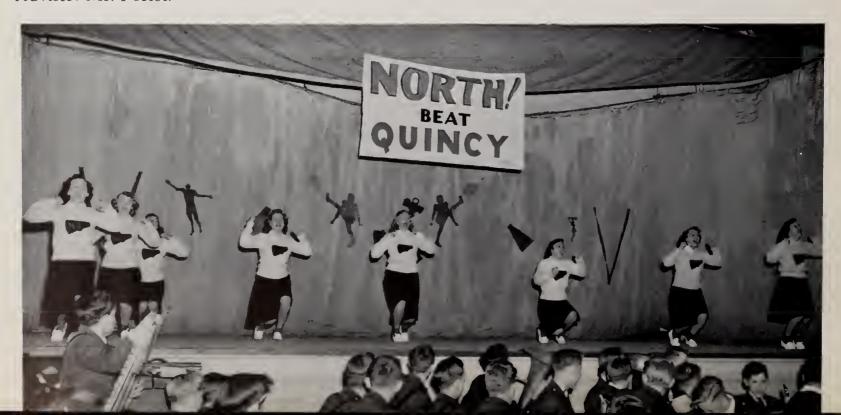

A whirl of mad preparation for the first big rally follows: blouses and coulottes are made: sweaters, red socks, and white moccasins are purchased; and practice begins again.

Their first game brings a series of inward quakings, but after the first few cheers everything's fine. Each succeeding game increases their confidence, and by Thanksgiving their assurance is complete. They well merit the acclamations of the wildly cheering crowd.

Finally, when basketball season rolls around they are veterans, though each new game gives added thrill.
